I have to say...your lawsuit against Capella (the capellauniversity.org site) is about the most retarded stuff I have ever seen. I hope you read all of this and I hope I hurt your feelings. I can't believe your "learning disability" affects getting a Capella education. I read the entire court filing and no where does it describe what kind of "disability" you have, only that it involves the software.

Guess what brainstein, you have to be able to read and write and to at least understand computer concepts to go to an online school and to get a PhD to boot? Not everyone is smart enough to do that, you in particular.

I hope you get counter-sued and lose everything. You have to be about the stupidest dumbass alive not to be able to hang with a online degree program.

I mean come on, how dumb are you? Are just retarded or something? Are you going to sue MIT or Yale next because your socialist idea of EVERYONE having to have the same opportunities as you (the dumbass) isn't working as planned?

You should also be ashamed of yourself for badmouthing an institution like Capella. They are a great school for those with the minimal intelligence to at least understand online coursework.

I am so tired of people like you infecting the American way with dumbing down everything so idiots like you can "have a chance too".

Stop bitching and get an IQ for a change, you fucking retard.

Go ahead and sue me too, you have my e-mail address to get in contact with me.. I DARE YOU! You don't have the balls (nor the intelligence) to do it, you winy little dumbass bastard.
